

Adib Farhadi

Anthony I. Mason, Editors

Anthony I. Mason, Editor

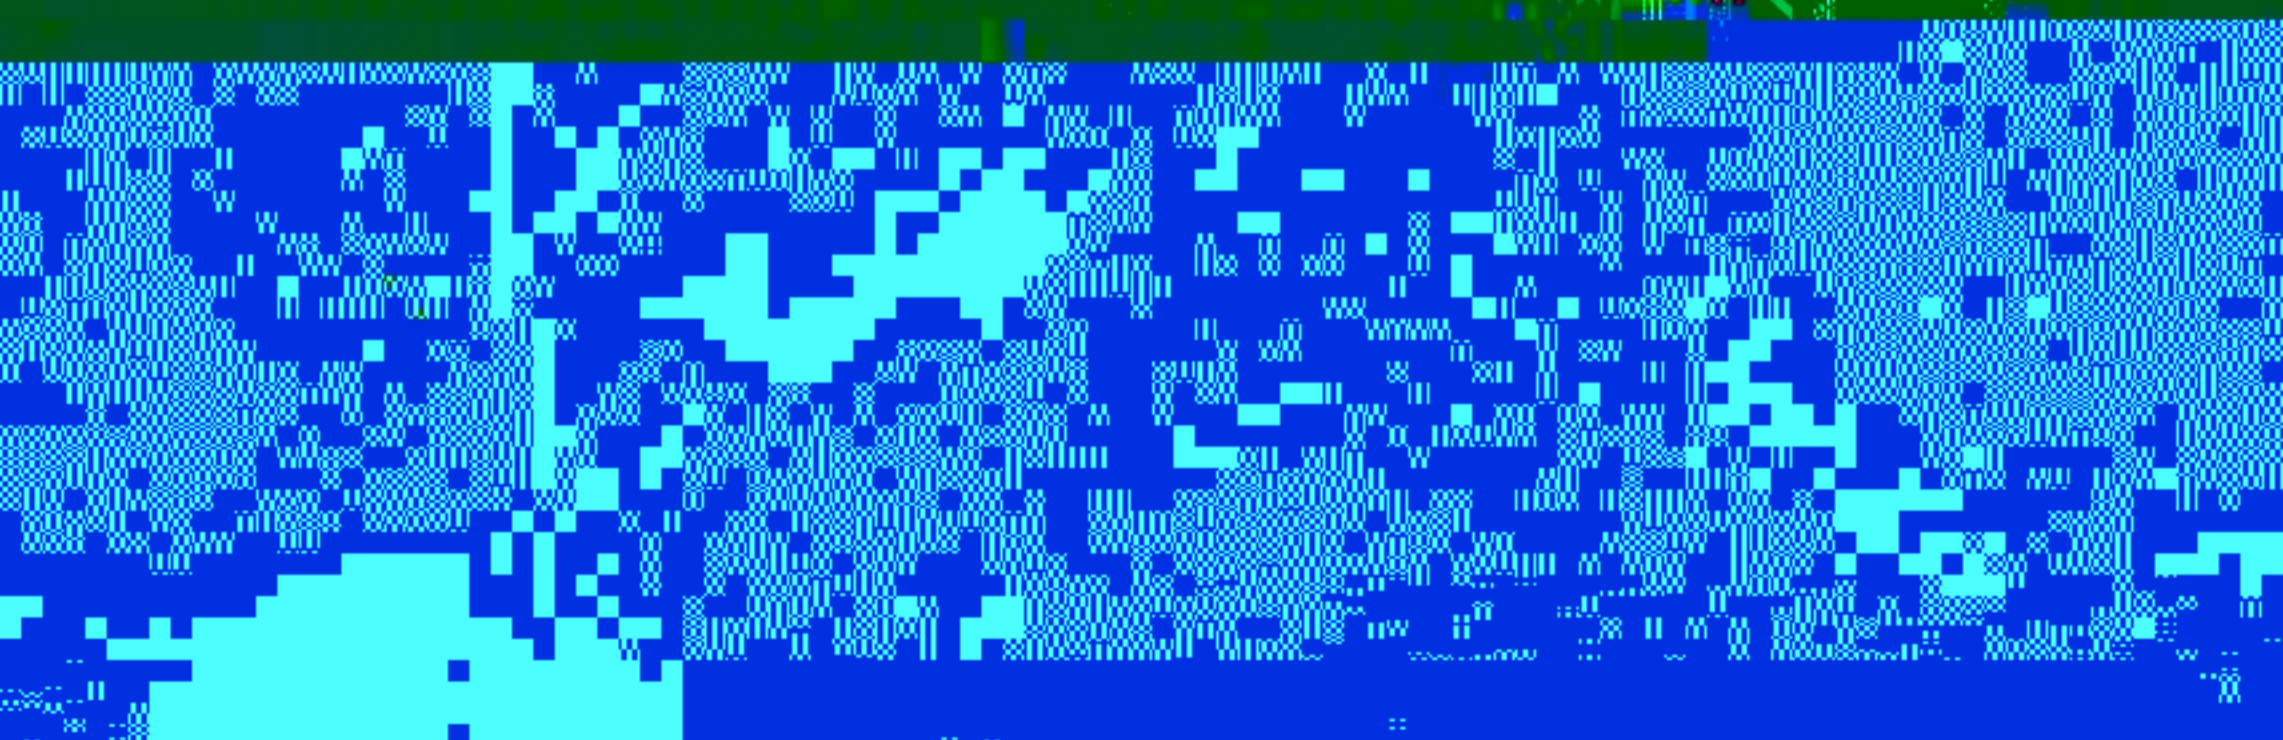

The Great Powers

Competition

Volume 1

Regional Development

About this book...

Over the past decade, the metropolitan political system has come to be characterized as

The Great Power Competition Volume 1

Adib Farhadi · Anthony J. Masys
Editors

The Great Power Competition Volume 1

Regional Perspectives on Peace and Security

Editors
Adib Farhadi
College of Arts and Sciences

Preface

location, the conference facilitated a deep-dive understanding of Great Power and Regional perspectives in the Central Region by advancing the dialogue on identifying key issues for stakeholders within and beyond the Central Region as it relates to regional diplomacy and politics, economic potential and rivalries, security considerations and interests, and the information environment. This Great Power Competition Conference Series is the first in a Great Power Competition Conference Series, with conferences taking place twice per year for nine years at the University of South Florida.

While some publications consider the Great Power Competition topic, none are yet known that explore the Great Power Competition in the Central Region from the collective vantage of military, academic, and industry experts. The Inaugural Great Power Competition Conference, indeed, filled this gap, offering new ideas and lines of inquiry, innovative solutions, and decision support at multiple levels.

This book presents a compilation of papers that emerged from the Great Power Conference held in January 2020 at the University of South Florida. The 20 chapters in this volume cover topic ranging from historical analysis to innovative solutions, changing the dynamics of peace and conflict in the region, and matters pertaining to human security and intervention strategies associated with humanitarian, development, and peace nexus.

Tampa, USA

Adib Farhadi

Acknowledgements

The editors would like to extend their sincerest gratitude to the entire University of South Florida and National Defense University Near East South Asia Center for Strategic Strategies for their work on the Great Power Competition Conference Series and the resulting edited volume.

They would like to express their appreciation to Dr. Eric Eisenberg, USF Dean of College of Arts and Sciences, for his continued and enthusiastic support for the initiative.

A most heartfelt thanks to Michelle Assaad, Dr. Dianne Donnelly, Michael Peters, Sean Ryan, Andrew Roberts, and the contributing authors to making this book possible.

Dr. Adib Farhadi would like to thank his wife, Elaha, children, Adam, and Sophia, and mother, Maliha, for their support, patience, and love, not only in regard to this project but in everything that life brings.

Contents

Surfing the Conflux: Technology, Information Environments and Great Power Competition Convergence.	1
Mark Abdollahian
Conceptualizing the Great Power Competition and U.S. Goeconomic Strategy for the Central and South Asia (CASA) Region	31
Adib Farhadi
Afghanistan’s Lithium as Strategic U.S. Focus in the Great Power Competition	55
Adib Farhadi and Ayman Bekdash
Central Asia, Great Power Competition, and Achieving Peace in Afghanistan	79
Humayun Hamidzada and Richard Ponzio
A Failure to See: The Strategic Error of Peacetime Deployments as a Direct Cause for Failure in Afghanistan	101
Andre Hollis
Winning the Great Game in Afghanistan: Bottom Up, Not Top Down	115
Andrea Jackson
Afghanistan: Changing Dynamics of Peace and Conflict.....	137
Ali A. Jalali
Humanitarian Aid in Conflict Regions: Refocus and Re-Imagine Creating an Architecture for Impact	155
Anthony J. Masys
Pre-revolutionary Iran and Great Power Rivalry	179
Mohsen Milani

About the Editors

Dr. Adib Farhadi is an Assistant Professor and a Faculty Director of Executive Education at the University of South Florida. His research is at the intersection of religion, politics, and conflict with a particular focus on the “Silk Road” Central and South Asia (CASA) Region, which is the subject of his recent book, Countering Violent Extremism by Winning Hearts and Minds. In addition, he is the Director and editor of the Great Power Competition book and conference series. Formerly, Dr. Farhadi served in senior positions in Afghanistan and extensively advised the United States government and various other international organizations. Dr. Farhadi is internationally recognized and a frequent presenter on the topics of Countering Violent Extremism (CVE), Conflict Resolution, Strategic Negotiations and Communication, and Geoeconomics. Dr. Farhadi earned his Ph.D. in Economics from the University of Canberra, M.A. from New York University, and B.S. from East Carolina University.

Dr. Anthony Masys is an Associate Professor and a Director of Global Disaster Management, Humanitarian Assistance and Homeland Security. Former Senior Air Force Officer, Dr. Masys, has a B.Sc. in Physics, an M.Sc. in Underwater Acoustics and Oceanography from the Royal Military College of Canada, and a Ph.D. from the University of Leicester. He is the Editor-in-Chief for Springer Publishing book series: Adva4o8obalics