minorities and under-represented business owners face. The goal of corporate social responsibility is for corporations to take responsibility for their impact on customers, employees, shareholders, communities and the environment in all aspects of their operations.

Supplier diversity is a strategic method used to present diverse suppliers with equal access to commercial sourcing and purchasing opportunities to improve business efficiency. Working together in strategic ways builds relationships which in the end improve the economic development of the society. Whether it's in the workforce or in procuring goods and services, diversity is a positive business strategy when embraced and executed well. Research has concluded that supplier diversity and corporate social responsibility go hand in hand. In order for these two responsible parties to work together both must align in the following ways:

- Align goals and agendas.
- Interdepartmental communication.
- Promote stakeholder buy-in for both agendas and goals.

As a small business, we constantly juggle limited resources whether it's time, people, or money.
The key is to establish a
