Program Implementation and Evaluation

Alternative Crisis Responder Model

Community Assistance and Life Liaison (CALL) program

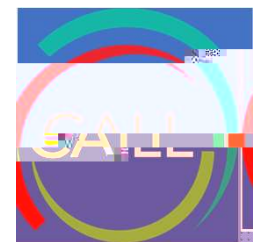

- Diverts non-crime crisis calls (e.g., mental health, substance use, youth disorderly) to civilian navigators without police presence
- Police still responds to non-crime calls if excluded from CALL for safety reasons

CJRP contacted to conduct equity evaluation

- Is program doing what intended and in an equitable way?
- Are services accessible to those in diverse communities?
- Acceptability by stakeholders (community, officers, team members, clients)

Recently applied for grant to conduct outcome evaluation

- Are more individuals diverted from criminal justice involvement, reduced arrests, reduced police responses to social welfare calls, and decreased use of 911?

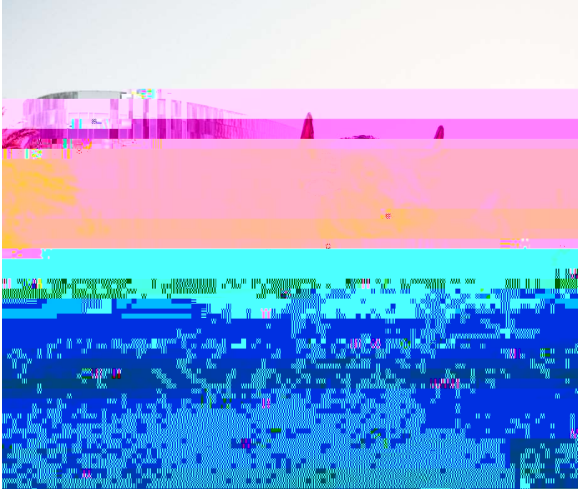

Funded by Foundation for a Healthy St. Petersburg

In collaboration with St. Petersburg Police Department (SPPD) and Gulf Coast Jewish Family and Community Services

ACTIVITY

What Does Motivate People?

- Think of supervisors, relatives, teachers, coaches, counselors, clergy who
 - Elicited a negative response in you, shut you down, did NOT motivate you
 - Helped you gain confidence, empowered you, motivated you
- What are common traits or characteristics for each group?

The Paradox of Change

“When a person feels accepted for who they are and what they do, no matter how unhealthy, it allows them the freedom to consider change rather than needing to defend against it.”
